Detailing Business Data Requirements
August 10 – 12, 2009
Investment: $1600
Location: Des Moines, Iowa

Understanding and documenting business data requirements is a critical component in defining complete requirements. Every process uses data and almost all business rules are enforced by data. Missing a critical piece of data or incorrectly defining a data element contributes to the majority of maintenance problems and results in systems that do not reflect the business needs.
This course teaches students an in-depth approach to identify and define all necessary data components using both textual templates and an entity relationship diagram.

Students will be given data templates with a suggested documentation structure for defining Business Data Requirements. In addition students will be shown how to document data using an entity relationship diagram to produce a logical data model in combination with the supporting detailed templates.
